Final Project Schedule/Timeline Considerations

- The chart above, and corresponding salary breakdown under "Budget" & "Team Report" reflect the highest potential salary cost for workload. Due to the length of the project, weeks instead of hours per individual and task are noted. The "Budget" reflects number of exact hours estimated per task and individual.
- Final Timeline will likely affect individual assignment or workload. For example, Abbie and Aaron may arrive at the conclusion during Phase I that Aaron may not be needed for the entire usability testing period, perhaps just one week out of each month of testing to gather results and begin initiating any bug fixes/problems. However, with the current schedule, the project is well under budget.
